Portuguese business multisectorial mission already in Cabinda

A Portuguese business multisectorial mission arrived Wednesday afternoon in Cabinda Province, where for three days it make contacts with associations and local businesspeople aimed at making business partnership.

In an interview to ANGOP, Patrícia Formigo, from the Portuguese Industry Association of Enterprising Confederation (AIP), said that the trip to Angola and in particular Cabinda province, happens from contacts made by the mission which aims at encouraging and finding potential businesses between companies associated to Angolan and Portuguese businesspeople.

According to Victor Ventura Ramos, executive director of Business Association of Lisbon Region (AERLIS), the Portuguese businesspeople are interested in investing in Angola.

During their stay in Cabinda, the Portuguese entrepreneurs will meet workers with local Business Associations, namely Apmeca, Assomeca and Chamber of Commerce as well as local businesspeople for exchange of information on possible partnership and business protocol and in areas to explore or invest.
